“Training indigenous clergy is an important part of establishing the Church in any area. We are grateful for the opportunity to be part of this important work, assisting the remarkable restoration of the Orthodox Church in Albania.”

Dr. Jeffrey Macdonald has a BA degree in Biblical Studies and Near Eastern Archaeology, an M.Div. (St. Vladimir's Seminary), an MA in Early Christian Studies, and a Ph.D. in Greek and Latin Patristics. He served as Professor of Church History and Old Testament at St. Herman's Seminary in Alaska, where he also taught Historical Theology, New Testament Greek, and Patristics. His wife, Caryn, has a Bachelor's degree in Anthropology from Bryn Mawr College and has done graduate studies at Harvard in Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations. The Macdonalds have five children (ages 5 – 19). Dr. Macdonald will serve as seminary professor at Resurrection of Christ Theological Academy in Albania. Caryn will be responsible for home-schooling their children but will also utilize her education and experience to assist with other missionary services.

Dr. Macdonald will be teaching at the Resurrection of Christ Theological Academy in Durres.

Dr. Macdonald looks forward to serving the people of Albania with the blessings of His Beatitude, Archbishop Anastasio, and to assisting with the educational programs of the Church.

The Macdonald family is dedicating their experience and passion by serving in Albania to:

- Learn the language and culture of the people God calls them to serve
- Help train future Albanian clergy by teaching at the Resurrection of Christ Theological Academy in Durres
- Assist with other educational programs as directed by the Archbishop
- Assist with hosting OCMC Mission Teams
